

Paper 'exposes' 60 CIA employees

LONDON — A radical newspaper, Red Weekly, yesterday published the names, addresses and phone numbers of 60 persons that it claimed were employees of the CIA in London.

The paper said it had obtained the information from sources within the American Embassy in London.

Reporter Mick Gosling, who said he compiled the article, declared in a telephone interview: "By publishing their names and addresses we're giving the U. S. an opportunity to take these people back to the U. S."
